

OCIOs Land More Billion-Plus Clients as Model Gains Steam

By Alyson Velati | 1/30/18

...A CIO can essentially help the committee interpret and understand what their OCIO is advising for the portfolio, he says.

“Cost is certainly one important ingredient people care about, which is one of the advantages of having an in-house investment staff,” says Chris Cutler, president of Manager Analysis Services. “But, I’m seeing a dynamic shift where some boards don’t really have the governance capital to be able to administer decisions in a way as it should be done, so they’re making the switch to an OCIO.”